HMC Architects Announces 2010 Corporate Promotions

CALIFORNIA, April 2010—HMC Architects' 2010 corporate promotions include two principals, two associate principals, six associates, one shareholder, and a chief practice officer.

Formerly the firm's chief marketing officer, Chris Taylor, AIA, LEED® AP, was named chief practice officer (CPO).

In Taylor's position as CPO, he will work with the firm's practice leaders to support their strategic initiatives and ensure HMC is aligned with client needs, challenges and changing market conditions. He will also coordinate best practices firm wide to provide high-quality design and excellent client service. According to Randy Peterson, FAIA, LEED AP, President/CEO, "Chris will be instrumental in working with firm leaders to continue to position HMC as an industry leader in our core markets and expand HMC's presence in our emerging markets."

HMC's two principal appointments include Marco Eacrett, AIA, LEED AP, and Steven Prince.

The firm's new associate principals include Katia McClain, Assoc. AIA, LEED AP, and Sandy Kate, REFP, LEED AP.

HMC's newest associates include Andrew Thompson, Gilbert Baez, Jaclyn Duran-Rubio, Assoc. AIA, LEED AP, Jessica Liu, Kyle Peterson, Architect, LEED AP, and Julia Hughes, AIA, LEED AP.

Raymond Pan, LEED AP, a design principal with the firm, was named as a new shareholder.
