HMC Architects Hires Hal Sibley, AIA, LEED® AP as Principal

ONTARIO, Calif., November 2007—Hal Sibley, AIA, LEED® AP, recently joined HMC Architects as a principal. Sibley will be based out of the firm's Ontario and Pasadena offices and will focus on strengthening the firm's healthcare practice.

"Hal will provide leadership and expertise for large expansion projects and hospitals in California," stated HMC Director of Healthcare Jerry Eich, AIA, ACHA. "Hal brings amazing strength in team mentoring and in capturing client confidence. We look forward to having him join our ongoing effort to reshape and fortify our thought leadership in healthcare planning and design."

With more than 30 years of experience in healthcare, institutional, and science and technology design, Sibley is known for his leadership and communication skills and brings a unique combination of hands-on project leadership and executive management skills to HMC. Much of Sibley's career has focused on healthcare, including recent experience as project director for the Kaiser Los Angeles Medical Center in Los Angeles, Calif. Sibley's current projects with HMC Architects include Torrance Memorial Medical Center in Torrance, Calif., and the emergency department at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles.

Sibley's experience includes a variety of assignments that have leveraged his broad technical and leadership skills for national A/E firms, such as Smith Group, HDR, and IDC/CH2M Hill. In addition to architectural project leadership, he has developed programs for quality assurance, project management, production, and mentoring.

Sibley has served on the board of directors for St. Mary's Hospital, Project Rehab, and Ronald McDonald House. He is an active member of the American Institute of Architects and recently became LEED accredited.

Throughout its history, HMC Architects has established a reputation as an award-winning design firm and thought leader for education, healthcare, and government facilities. Founded in 1940, HMC is one of the largest planning and design firms headquartered in California with offices strategically located throughout the West.
