

RIDING HOUSE 2 HOUSE 4 HUMANITY

Support Jason and Robert's 450-mile bike ride from San Francisco to Malibu and help a community in Lamas, Peru rebuild their identity with a new cultural center.

Robert Young and Jason Cochran are architects working, living and bike commuting in Southern California. After biking to HMC Architects for the past four years, they decided to plan their big ride from San Francisco to Malibu—a five-day, 450-mile journey down the beautiful Pacific Coast Highway. They're dedicating this ride to the folks in Lamas, Peru who suffered a catastrophic earthquake. With the help of Architecture For Humanity they are trying to rebuild a cultural center. This cultural center, with its focus on music and preserving the indigenous language, will help the community by creating a space where the local people can come together and share and learn about their common ancestral experiences.

All proceeds collected from our bike ride will be donated to the Lamas Cultural Center project through Architecture for Humanity, Los Angeles.

Support the Lamas Cultural Center project, donate to our bike ride >>

<https://www.indiegogo.com/projects/house-2-house-4-humanity-achitecture-for-humanity/>

Our journey begins August 27 at the San Francisco Cliff House and culminates on September 1 at the Chart House in Malibu. We're riding about 90 miles each day and staying with friends or in hotels along the way.

Follow our ride on Instagram >> #ridinghouse2house

Questions? Contact Robert Young at robert.young@hmcarchitects.com